DEDICATION

Everyone in life gets older - it's one of the few things we all share, but not everyone gets "old". It is for this reason that the Class of '94 has chosen to dedicate this Aegis to Mr. Richard Bolles, our teacher and friend these past four years. He may be getting older but his attitude, understanding and ability to communicate with us demonstrate clearly that he has never lost his youth.

We stopped to interview him the other day (to try and discover his secret before age creeps up on us), and found him observing a class being led by an intern. In the course of our talk we found out some things we'd never known. Who knew that

Mr. Bolles had once coached football, or track, or tennis? Most of what we heard, though, is already apparent to anyone who knows Coach Bolles. His successes in sports have usually been due more to his philosophy than to any strategy. "I've always felt that the achievers in life are the people who work hard, are disciplined, dedicated and responsible and care about other people." When pressed to pick a favorite graduating class he declined politely, "Every class has something special about it."

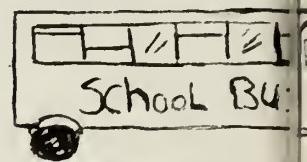

Early in his career Coach Bolles would stay late at school, often until 7 at night. He helped out at dances, Spartanum; his enthusiasm was boundless. Since then the demands of raising his family, as well as the business he somehow found the energy to run during the summers on the Cape, have not been able to significantly diminish Coach's energy. What is his secret, anyway?

When the class he was observing ended and the students trooped off to change, we watched Mr. Bolles as he rounded up the stragglers, laughing with them, prodding them, listening to their teen-age laments, so obviously interested in them and their crazy, mixed-up lives. We were still watching as they parted company and Mr. Bolles, now whistling softly to himself, headed on toward his office - young again.

To Begin With, Farewell

To the Class of 1994:

As we go through our last and final year, I want you to think back to all the memories and good times we've had together. Then think of all that we've made it through. Think of all the new experiences yet to come, as we get set to enter college!! Ever since I first entered this school system, I've felt as if I was part of something special. Now, 10 years later, I realize what it was. It was the great bond we all shared. We are certainly one of the closest and nicest classes to come through E.L.H.S. We all get along no matter how different we are and I am SO happy to be graduating with you guys. I'm really gonna miss all of you but, especially Anthony Hite and his mood swings, Allyson Salier's great personality, Jeff Hickey and his strength shoes, and last, but not least the beautiful smiles of Erin Bentley and Nicole Snyder.

As we go our separate ways, no one of us will soon forget East Longmeadow High's red and gray. You guys changed my life and I'll never forget any of you for it. It's to you, the Class of 1994, that I wish all the luck and love in the world. I am really gonna miss all of you ...

I HEARD THE NEWS TODAY, OH NO

You go through most of your life saying "It'll never happen to me." You'll always be the one giving the sympathy and not receiving it. But when you're the one who is receiving the sympathy and saying "Why does this have to happen to me", well, then it hits you pretty hard. About two years ago after Geoff Smith had passed away, that is exactly what his family and friends said to themselves. I know that is what I said to myself because I, among others, was one of those close friends. In the two years that have gone by it feels weird being in school because the face that made me laugh, cheered me up, and was always there after school, wasn't ever going to be there again- and nothing could change it, not even a prayer. It all happened so suddenly. The day Geoff passed away, my friends and I were all hanging out, joking around, and having fun, not knowing what had happened just 3 hours earlier. Then we got that one phone call that changed everything, and there was nothing we could do about it. There is not one day that goes by where I don't have one thought or memory of him. For those of you that didn't know him as well as my friends and I did, I hope now you understand how we feel.

BANDING TOGETHER

We'd honestly have to admit that our favorite class available in this school is band. When we first came together in the fifth grade, we never expected to stick together through eight years of music! Way to go seniors!

It often appears that band students are in a comatose state of existence all their own. Not so. We work just as hard as any other class. For instance, try marching with a piece of wood under your arm, watching for nearly invisible hash marks, all the while praying that your music doesn't fly off your lyre into someone's face! It's very awkward! Granted, we don't generate the crowds that sports do, but for those of you who attend our concerts, your support is greatly appreciated!

Mr. Turner, we'll miss you and your corny jokes. We'll forever walk proud under our appropriate labels, "Fruits, Tubers, and Dumbs" (flutes, tubas, and drums). We'll especially miss all the band members who could always manage to put a goofy grin on our faces despite the headaches we received from Mr. Turner's yelling! We'll miss the band running around like decapitated chickens prior to Mr. Turner walking in on us. And of course, who could forget practicing in the sub 40 degree temperatures of the auditorium?

To our fellow seniors, never again can we take days off from school to spend in Boston or New York, nor can we feast at Friendly's after a long, tiring band concert. Our days of getting into football games for free are over. We can, however, always look back on the great times we had together.

Jen: "Hey Marc, think of it, at our fifth year reunion we'll either be celebrating the ten years we've been together or we won't be speaking to each other because our relationship couldn't survive the first week in college."

Marc: "Or, we may not be speaking to each other because we ARE still together."

Jen: "Well that's a nice way of looking at things!"

Marc: "Don't worry. Whatever happens will be for the best."

Jen: Forget it! Let's just break up right here and now."

Marc: I was kidding. You know what our relationship means to me."

Jen: "What?"

Marc: "OK ... um ... our eternal love has brought me peace? How's that?"

Jen: "Will you be serious for once?!"
Marc: "All right, all right. I just have trouble putting it into words. What does it mean to you?"

Jen: "Just say what you feel."
Marc: "Well sometimes I wonder what it'd be like to get married, get a house with a nice, white picket fence. Maybe have a 'Marc Jr.' and a little girl, too. We could live out the American Dream."

Jen: "Oh Marc. That's so sweet. Are you being serious this time?"

DO THEY WAIT UP FOR YOU?

Are you the first or only child? When you come home at night, do you find your parents waiting impatiently for your return? Do they question where you're going, who you'll be with, what you'll be doing, and for how long you'll be out? If so, you probably wonder if they'll ever let you grow up. As a group, we're suffering from the common disorder of "overprotective parents".

We can't help feeling jealous of those who have older siblings to pave the way. They always seem to be able to get away with more. They don't have to carry two dimes so that if one falls out of a hole in their pocket, they'll still have the other one in an emergency. Their parents don't worry so much about how they get home as long as they get there at a reasonable hour in a reasonable condition.

I don't know if they will turn out any differently than we will in the long run. I guess it doesn't really matter because we will all become our own person at some point in our lives.

Right now though, we know our parents feel that what they are doing is right and that we will someday benefit from it. So we just need to realize that we should respect them for this and grow up when they aren't looking.

OUR MORE YEARS, FOUR MORE YEARS . . .

Although each of us in the Class of '94 is que, there is one thing we all shared this year- we each had to decide what to do with the rest of our lives.

When my friends and I first thought about looking at colleges, we imagined how much fun it would be to travel and see new places, but in reality the process turned out to be more of a hassle than anything else. Most of my friends delayed their school visits until the fall and their anxious comings and goings added to be a distraction from our last year together.

Fortunately for me, my parents urged me to begin looking at schools in the fall of my junior year. By September of '93 I had narrowed my choice down to two. Then, in the middle of October I was ready to commit. U.N.H. had become the place where I wanted to spend the next four years of my life. When picking colleges many students think that if they get into the best known, the prettiest or best academic institution, or even simply one that's far away from E. Longmeadow, that they'll be happy. It really isn't until you visit a school however, and spend some time getting used to the atmosphere of the place that you can truly know if you'll enjoy your time there. I hope my classmates will make the right choices and be as lucky as I am.

CHICKS WITH STICKS

With everything that we've done our senior year, one might expect that the memory of the '93 field hockey season might be something we'd never bring up in polite conversation. But in the months since our season ended (1-10-2) we've begun to forget a lot of the pain and unpleasantness, and instead have recognized something positive about the whole thing. We had a new coach whom we liked immensely (thanks for a great season Mrs. Steitz-Kayagan). We got to know each other under adversity, we all became closer because of it, and we learned what was really important. Though we didn't score many goals on the field, we did manage to meet our own personal goals. That was enough for us. Some day every former student of E.L.H.S. will look back upon our die-hard hockey team and a smile will come to his or her face, as the memory of our seasons float back into their head.

None of us will ever forget four years ago, when we gathered nervously at the edge of the field before the first day of summer double session. (A that running was hell!) We'll never forget raiding the apple orchard after the Frontier game. We haven't eaten an apple since without thinking about it. None of us will forget the good-natured whining as we hauled in the goals every day after practice as the light faded from the late afternoon sky.

Most of all, though, we five seniors will remember our last year together, and always hold our field hockey family close in our heart.

BEHIND THE GLASS

In the shadows of ELHS there is a group of students who stand alone, different from the rest of the class. Our names are Marc and Brian and we are two members of that group. We are different because we do things on our own and we know what we want out of life. Most students here follow the lead of their friends. We don't. For this we are looked down upon instead of being known as trendsetters".

We are sometimes called problem children because of the hard lives we've led. Because of this however, we've learned to fight for what we believe. It's not always easy. Our world, with its drug, alcohol, mental and physical abuse is tough enough without having to put up with the prejudice and immature name calling that we get most days when we come to school. That stuff is just plain stupid. Our lives may be difficult at times but we've had our fun, too. We think our friendships are stronger because we understand each other's problems so well. Most of the time we just hang out together, listening to Heavy Metal, but we also like to go to the movies, go out to eat, play pool or go to the mall, just the same as anyone else. During the four years that we've been together we've made some new friends - and lost some old, but every year there has been something different to remember. We'll never forget the time Damien and Bruce turned Mr. Simonds' desk around, or in 10th grade when we fought with stink bombs in the freshman hallway.

For some people this has been a difficult year. For others '94 was nothing but fun. All we know is each year is stranger than the rest.

TWO FOR THE ROAD

Saying goodbye to a class like ours isn't easy. For years we thought graduation would never come but now that it has we can only wonder where the time went. Our senior year seemed to fly past us so quickly that the memories of certain days and events have begun to fade. Some of the best days of our lives are over and done with. Never again will we be able to enter our little school and be greeted by so many familiar faces. Nor will we be able to enjoy again the comforting feeling we got when we walked down to the cafeteria, where an inviting table of friends waited to pass along the latest gossip. The class bonding that we enjoyed at sporting events, with everyone cheering and laughing and having a good time, was something you can only get from attending a small school. Sitting huddled together in the little bleachers, the bright lights overhead, we all wanted the same thing- to be happy together. But that is over, too. There are no more games.

As we experience everything for the last time somewhere in the back of our heads we shared the same thought: "This is the last time I'll do this. This is the last time I'll put on this uniform. This is the last time I'll write a story for the newspaper. This is the last time I'll take the bus to the collaborative. This is the last time I'll be in Spartanium. This is the last time I'll be with my homeroom during X Block". We began to understand why the senior we've watched before were so emotional. In our last year at E.L.H.S. we, too, realized that although each one of us has a few friends we'll continue to see forever, we'll also miss our lab partner, our classmate, our teammates, the person whose name has come just before ours in the alphabet all these years (and the person after, as well). It has been a great four years.

GIMME' AN "S"!

Give me a P-A-R-T-A-N-S! What's that spell? "Spartans!" Louder! "SPARTANS!!!" The bleachers tremble, hands are clapping, voices are shrieking and the crowd is alive with school spirit! A bolt of energy surges through my body as the mighty Spartan warriors tear the field apart, taking down anyone who stands in the way of their victory. The team battles away under the bright lights. The bleachers are filled with excitement and encouragement. Cries of "Go Spartans!", "Get 'em red!", "Come on E.L.!", and "Go! Fight! Win!" fill the ears of every Spartan warrior. They know we're with them all the way. As my cape flutters in the wind and my shield glistens under the lights, I stand proud and tall, thrusting my sword toward the heavens. "Let's go Spartans!" I cry with renewed enthusiasm.

Being the school mascot is more than just wearing a costume and bouncing around the sidelines. I represent our school and symbolize school spirit. When I cheer for our team, I do so because I believe in them, and have faith in their playing ability. All of the Spartan teams are grateful because our support motivates them to slay their opponents. Our cheers mean more to them than anyone might imagine. We make them proud to be Spartans. With that, they play their best in every game.

SINS OF THE FATHER?

"So the party's Friday night at 7. You gotta be here." "Shut up! Here comes Steve and Chris!"

"Man that party last night was so awesome! His rents weren't even home!"

"Why don't you say it a little louder? Look who's ting over there."

"These guys are so lucky. Steve and Chris can do what ever they want around town. I bet they can eed everywhere."

These are just a few of the things that we hear everyday when people think we're not listening. We're not complaining, but having your father serve as a police officer in your hometown does have its disadvantages as you might imagine. It isn't always that way. For instance, back in elementary school, having fathers who were police officers seemed impressive to our friends. You were special if your father wore a uniform with a shiny badge and carried a gun. As we entered Birchland

Park, this feeling started to change. Our friends started to view the police more as nuisances rather than as people whose job it is to protect and serve the citizens of E.L. This attitude intensified as we entered the high school. For the first time we heard our dads referred to as "pigs". It was a pretty unsettling period in our lives. Even though we had to put up with all this stuff, we still managed to have a pretty good time at E.L.H.S., because we know that most of the time our friends were just fooling around. We really don't mind much anymore. In fact, having a police officer as a father has begun to have its rewards, although we haven't figured them all out yet.

"Hey Chris and Steve tell your dads thanks. They got the guys who broke into my house the other night, and we got all our stuff back. Thanks a lot."

KILL THE SPARTANS!!

Four years ago when the two of us were freshman at Longmeadow High School, that's all we ever heard. We had grown up in Longmeadow and naturally considered it our home. Our comfortable lives changed abruptly, however, when our families decided to move to East Longmeadow. At that time, it felt as if we were leaving our homes, memories, and friends behind. Although East Longmeadow was just the next town over, it still seemed very far away and new to us. It was the home of the Spartans who had been our enemies for so many years.

At first, as we tried to find our way around East Longmeadow High School, it felt as though everyone was watching us. It was our first time in a new school with new faces and many new challenges ahead of us. It did not take long, however, for those faces and challenges to become part of our daily lives. Through many different sports and clubs in the school we soon met new people and started to make friends, friends whom we would remember for the rest of our lives. So ELHS and the town of East Longmeadow became our homes where we would live and grow for the next three years. After awhile we became part of the class of 1994 from ELHS.

As seniors about to graduate, we can look back on those three years with fondness. We have enjoyed being part of such a great class and can not imagine graduating from anywhere else. East Longmeadow High School is now our home, and for the past three years we've heard nothing but the three words we always stand behind: KILL THE LANCERS!

HAIL ! FROM THE CHIEF

By the time you read this, my term in office will be nearly at an end. It certainly has been an exciting two years. Before we say goodbye, though, I just wanted to take the time to say what an honor it has been for me to serve this class as president.

In my first two years at E.L.H.S. I took part in all of the fundraisers our class conducted. We had all been told how important it was to raise as much money as possible before our senior year so that we could have a great prom and banquet (now we know they were telling the truth). No one had told me how much hard work it would involve - no one told me how much fun it would be at the same time. I decided to try and run.

When the ballots were cast at the end of sophomore year and the announcement was made that I had won, I was shocked. I still sometimes can't believe it! That year brought about a profound change in my life. With all the responsibilities of my new position there came the growing realization that there would be no more "free time" for me anymore. That continued to be the case this year as all of our senior activities drew closer and all of our bills came due. Fortunately for me, and for all of us, there were always people willing to help the Class of '93 reach its goals. I'd like to thank my fellow class officers, both current and former, who did so much over the years to get us where we are today. I'd like to thank the senior homeroom reps, who helped make this year so much fun. I'd also like to thank our former class advisors who pushed us to succeed in all of our efforts. Most of all though, I'd like to thank Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Cooley, and all of you in the Class of '94 who helped make my term in office so enjoyable. Good luck to all of you in the future.

LOOK HOMeward, ANGELS

Lately there has been a lot of talk about how boring life is in East Longmeadow. How many times have you heard or repeated the phrase, "I can't wait to get outta' here"? Well that's only natural, I suppose. Everyone feels confined at some point. Would a mall, a theater or a MacDonald's really be the solution? I doubt it.

After a week or two of the mall routine gets pretty stale. The old people walk in circles for their health while the kids stare at each other coolly in between moneyless attempts at shopping. A movie house would never survive in a town of 13,000 - especially not in this age of video rentals and cable TV. And a MacDonald's? After a month a typical MacD's neighborhood stinks like an old french-fry. Who needs that? Anyway, I thought the whole point of hanging out is the people you're with, not the hangout itself.

The truth is, in ten or twenty years we'll be looking for a town just like East Longmeadow to settle our own families into. We'll appreciate the fact that the people here tend to know one another's business, but that's OK, because most of the time life is quiet anyhow. Quiet, but good. Don't give up on our hometown just yet, Class of '94, it's the only one we'll ever have.

UNDERCLASSMEN

THE MYTHICAL THIRD FLOOR

Is there any more enduring symbol of underclassman life than the fabled third floor? Not likely. From our first day in ninth grade, the third floor has been the focus of much rumor, superstition and song (OK, not exactly "song", but there are a LOT of rumors). Is there a third floor? What's it like? No, really, TELL me! Somebody PLEASE!!

To the class of '94, the days when we nervously asked directions "upstairs", or waited stupidly for the elevator doors to open are long since passed. We know better now. But, to the underclassmen, bent under the weight of all those books, there remains a sense of doubt. (We did hear, though, that there are plans in the works)

The picture above is a rare souvenir of a recent foray into the mysterious world of teachers. Although the teacher himself is not present in the photo, we can deduce quite a bit about him from the objects found in his habitat. Observe. The "tape", "stapler" and "kleenex" are the standard props in the educator's world. Look closer. Note the "#2 pencils" stacked at the front of the desk. You'd think this man's students would know enough to come equipped to his class after twelve years! See that "grade book"? Obviously a ploy to keep his students thinking about their performance at all times. Yeah, right! Those coffee cups and the advil attest to the "success" of that strategy. The slang dictionary at the bottom right is a vain attempt to keep pace with the intricate codes of his students. When that method fails there are the usual "progress" reports and "conduct" cards to fall back on - the last act of a desperate man! And if that weren't bad enough, through it all this man is forced to bear the grotesque stain of his profession: a suffocating and disfiguring blanket of dust, courtesy of the "dustless" chalk (bottom center).

(not pictured: the patience, dedication, intelligence and good humor that keeps this man, and others like him, going)

Even if you're not an athlete for all seasons, sports can play a significant role in your life. Outside of the classroom sporting events give students a place to gather and enjoy themselves. Everyone gets to know each other better through the spirit, songs and close contact. Whether you're in the bleachers or out on the field, sports are simply another opportunity to find out what life is all about.

The 1994 Girls' Varsity Soccer team may only have posted a 6-8-3 mark in the standings under new head coach Mr. Gonsalves, but along the way the young Spartans showed flashes of brilliance that should return them to the playoffs next season. Although co-captains Becky Douville and Allyson Salier will be lost to graduation, the rest of this year's crew will be back next fall. Included among the returnees will be All WMass forward Kate Brunelle (1st Team) and fullback Meredith Thompson (2nd Team). Goalkeeper Lindsay Sawyer, Kate Boggis, Christina Urbini, Brienne Smith, and Jennie Hill each gained valuable experience this year and will provide the nucleus for next season's title contenders.

There he goes again! Jeff Niznik's block springs Marc Maccarini loose for another long gain.

Electrifying, dynamic, talented, thrilling, hard working, unbelievable - how else can one describe Spartan football '94? Led by Coach Modzelewski and his staff the team streaked to a 7-3 record (7-1 league) and came within a couple of plays of the Super Bowl. For offense the team relied on QB Dave Baker, TE's Chris Chaisson and Ed Dubish and the superb blocking of the "Hogs" (aka Gelinas, Paquette, Hersey, Niznik, Sample). RB Marc Maccarini capped his fabulous career by smashing the school's all-time scoring record and setting an incredible single-game mark of 360 yds. rushing and 4 TD's vs. Turners Falls. On defense Anthony Sibilia, Randy Sample and Chris Chaisson led a balanced and aggressive unit that yielded few yards and fewer points. Will the Spartans' success be short-lived? We doubt it. John Trovato, Jeff Skowron and Dan Maurer will return with the "Hogs" next year.

BOYS' SOCCER

Steve Jakus chips one into the box during a 3-1 rout of Amherst.

Matt Gour cuts off a Hurricane clearing attempt.

Tri-captain Chris Raschilla turns the play back upfield.

"It's in the net!" The young Spartans should do plenty of this next year.

The boys' soccer team underwent a true rebuilding year as graduation and injuries played havoc with Coach Coburn's roster. During one particularly tough stretch seven Spartan starters were sidelined at the same time. Tri-captains Chris Raschilla, Keller Williams and Steve Jakus did their best to keep the team focused as the long campaign wore on. Kevin Drenthe's fine play earned him MVP honors, while James Redmond, Jason Cross, Don Rusiecki, and Dan Obernesser were reliable contributors. Although the season was a tough one in terms of wins and losses, Spartan fans have reason to be optimistic. Five freshmen, including Gerry Boggis, Chris Conway, and Matt Gour were able to gain meaningful varsity experience that should prove invaluable as the team moves to Division II next year.

FIELD HOCKEY

"What do you eat? RAW MEAT!!" The troops prepare for battle.

Mashed Brownies - Debbie Steere applies the defensive pressure.

Goals may have been hard to come by, but the Spartans remember how to celebrate.

"She's an excellent driver." - Jaime Lyons clubs one upfield.

Sunshine Girls - Allison and Alyssa stretch out their smiles before practice.

"I hate it when that happens!" Brenda is victimized by a bad hop.

Although the field hockey team endured another frustrating season in the record books, (1-13-2), they probably had more fun than any other squad. Most of the credit for this notable fact should go to new coach Nancy Steitz-Kayajan, whose enthusiastic instruction and sense of perspective prevented the girls from giving up. Practices were never boring; there was always something to learn, something to laugh about, something to remember. And there is evidence that those practices are paying dividends. Seniors Kelly Gray, Alyssa Mathison, Jaime Lyons, Brenda Draper and Debbie Steere each played better than ever as their careers at ELHS came to a close. Kelly John, Christina Burton, Abbie Ohlin and Dana Turpie also improved noticeably as did newcomers Renee Blanchard and Andrea Hubbard. With a solid core of returning players and a JV that finished 7-4-5 the field hockey program should have even more fun next year.

Although their records don't show it, both the boys' and girls' cross country teams had reasons to cheer this year. The girls, (2-8), fielded their largest contingent in some time and were buoyed by the strong running of Mindy Robison, Carrie Lapaire, Lee Jangrow, Jen Blaisdell and newcomer Cori Cassidy.

The boys, (1-10), were once again led by Joe Fois, who finished 2nd overall in the Pioneer Valley Championships. Joe was far from being a one man team however, as Rich Roberts, Andy McGrath, Ryan Doyle, Nick Kyte and Ryan Singh each contributed over 55 points during the dual meets. Also encouraging is the fact that between the two teams there were 14 freshmen who posted respectable results during the season - a sure sign of better times to come.

The 1994 Spartan girls' basketball team battled gamely through another tough rebuilding year. Led by captain Katie Brunelle and seniors Mindy Robison and Kerry Cox, the team struggled to a 2-16 record. Though wins were hard to come by, team spirits rarely faltered, due in large part to the irrepressible enthusiasm of coaches Lelas and Nichols, and to the character of the girls themselves. On the court, Shelly Dion and Heather Lynch continued to improve at the forward spots and will be counted on heavily next year. Freshmen Lindsay Sawyer, Meg Kubera and Brienne Smith also saw considerable action and should help lead the Spartans back to respectability next season.

The Spartan wrestling team got off to a decent start this past winter, but injuries and an overall lack of experience caught up with the squad as the season progressed. Despite a team finish of 2-9, some individuals had exceptional records. Randy Sample had a fantastic year, losing only 1 match in the dual meet season before winning the 189 lb. State Division III title. Mark Stuckenbruck (152 lbs.), Steve Bartolucci (135) and Dan Obernesser (140) were also able to notch quite a few wins and lead their teammates by example. Sophomores Chris Dimetres and Jason MacNaught should contribute significantly next season as should freshman Anthony Drummond. Perhaps the only dark side to next years outlook will be trying to find replacements for senior managers Jessica Gagne and Mike Alcorn - two of the best friends Spartan wrestling ever had.

The '93 - '94 boys' hoop team endured one of the toughest seasons anyone around here can remember, finishing the year at 0-20. Injuries to several players prolonged the expected period of adjustment to new coach Wayne Donaldson's offense. In fact the year was almost over before the team started to play up to their capabilities in the new system. To their credit, though, the Spartans never gave up, even when the prospect of victory seemed remote. The second Putnam game is a good example of the team's character; EL only lost by a single hoop to a contingent that had routed us by 22 points the first time around. Doug Knowe, Chris Chaisson, Mike Krol, Jeremy Giard and Joe Nadeau led the Spartans up front while Steve Baxter, Shir Regenbaum and newcomer Chris Milley rotated in the backcourt. Although the team seems certain to move down a division after realignment next year, the only place it can go right now is up.

The "A" Division doesn't take kindly to teams that are rebuilding and this winter proved no exception; the Spartan girls' swim team slipped to a 4-6 record. Yet this was a season that featured many fine performances and the encouraging development of several underclassmen. Senior captain Erin Schloyer and diver Wendi Lyke will be missed next year, but EL may be stronger as Kelly John (200, 500 freestyle), Abbie Ohlin (50, 100 freestyle), Meredith Rosso (200 IM), Dana Turpie (100 breaststroke, butterfly), and Julie Gelinas (100 backstroke) return to try and build on their fine '93 campaigns. Jamie Ferrero and Amanda Liucci also turned in creditable efforts in their first varsity seasons and return next year as well. The Spartans have had their year to rebuild - their opponents should be worried.

Led by tri-captains Mike St. Clair, Mark Maia and Kyle Donovan, a very young Spartan hockey team skated to another successful season. In addition to the outstanding play of the captains, the squad was boosted by the fine efforts turned in by Chris Raschilla, Ed Dubish and Brian Tondera. Goaltender Pat Frye did remarkably well in his first year as a starter, overcoming a slow start to backstop the team to seven wins in the last eleven games. The real story may well have been Jessica Tabb, who made ELHS history as the first girl to skate, and skate VERY well, for the Spartans. Although some excellent seniors have been lost to graduation, the future continues to look good for Coach Brownlee and his team.

The boys' swim team continued their winning ways in 1994, posting a 6-4 record and maintaining a tradition of excellence that shows few signs of weakening. On paper the Spartans would seem to be in over their heads in the A Division, yet when the swimmers leave the blocks there aren't many teams that can stay with EL. Dave Baker (100 Back) and Dave Kubera (100 Free) provided senior leadership to a group that finished fourth in WMass and ninth in the state. Jim McNeill (50 Free), Dan Brennan (100 Fly), E.J. Villamainio (100 Breast), Charles Gray (500 Free) and divers Mike Lord and Pete Gallagher all return next season to challenge for the title.

Led by President Chris Adams and new advisor Ms. DeMarey, the Student Council enjoyed a busy 1994. In addition to the highly successful school dances that they sponsored, the group also found time to organize a charity swimathon and to donate more than one thousand non-perishable food items to the Open Pantry during the holiday season. ## NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society is unique among the many organizations at ELHS. To qualify, a student must receive high grades throughout his or her high school career, and still must pass a faculty review before induction can take place. What's in it for them? They are excused from study halls (during which time they usually study, anyway), and may receive an extra set of books! And since the Society is a service organization, the students get the chance to offer whatever free time they have left to work for charity. sound like fun? Actually, it is, and quite honorable, too.

The Environmental Action Club spent much of 1994 in an effort to gain grassroots support for an important proposal currently under consideration by the Massachusetts legislature. Nicknamed the "battery bill", the new measure, if enacted, would prohibit the sale of batteries containing toxins, especially mercury, by the year 2000. The EAC collected and displayed more than 360 batteries at ELHS in an attempt to educate students as to the severity of the problem, but as is often the case with environmental issues, only time will tell if we took the information to heart.

Fear not, science devotees, the spirits of Thomas Edison, Marie Curie, and Mr. Wizard are alive and well at ELHS! In the darkened hallways in and around rm. 124 you will find a group of students with a wild passion for all things scientific. Under the leadership of Mr. Carey, the organization meets to split the occasional atom, defy, (or at least not be overly obedient to) gravity, and, of course, continue the freshman cloning project. When not preoccupied by these activities, you can often find them competing with other schools to see who can build the sturdiest tower out of pasta, or who can make the car that runs the furthest without insurance.

JAZZ BAND

Jazz is believed to have originated among southern African-Americans in the late 1800's. Since then, it has become the main influence of many modern forms of music, including elevator Muzak, hip-hop funk, country, and even death metal. Our high school's jazz band carries the torch of this amazing tradition. Whether they're covering Benny Goodman, Count Basie, or any of a hundred other jazz masters, you can always find their hearts in the music.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club marked its first year of independence from their former amigos in the International Club by visiting the Big Apple to take in the Broadway productions of "Phantom of the Opera" and "Miss Saigon". They also participated in the planning of a production of their own, another successful Foreign Language Week here at ELHS.

A.S.M.W.

The Schools Match Wits team spent much of last fall preparing for the upcoming season, only to see that season cut terribly short after an opening round loss to Amherst. The fact that the margin of defeat was only a single question comes as little solace to the team, but a real reason to be optimistic lies in the fact that most of them will be back next year.

AS SCHOOLS MATCH WITS - Jason Bergeron, Shawn Lavelle, Siobhan Doucette, Mike McKenna, Seth Goodchild.

CHORUS

The ELHS Chorus continued its recent surge of popularity, recruiting new members and entertaining audiences with their superb voices. With a new vocal instructor on the way to ELHS next year, things are definitely sounding upbeat for this talented group.

LITERARY MAGAZINE

The '94 edition of the ELHS Literary Magazine was published this past spring without the fanfare that commonly surrounds our society's more celebrated writers. There were no autograph sessions with the authors, no movie deals in the works. In fact, for several days during lunch block, LitMag staff members set out copies of their work to be picked up for free. This in no way should diminish the fine quality of their efforts. Stories by Ben Durant, poems by Chris Davis, Sherry Haetinger, and Lindsey Hamlin, and artwork by Dan Ziembenski and Janel Gurney were all first rate and well presented by editor Cathy Henry.

FRENCH CLUB

1994 was a fantastic year for the new French Club as they celebrated their organization's rebirth with a variety of exciting activities. Christmastime found club members gathered around a fondue pot and the French version of "Home Alone" at Maureen Burke's house. The spirited Can-Can dancers entertained us during International Week and, later in March, francophiles took in the Broadway production of "Phantom of the Opera". During spring vacation a fortunate few were even able to visit Paris and Nice. Ooh-la-la!

BAND

It was another rebuilding year for the band. The truth is, every year is a rebuilding year when one-quarter of your membership graduates every spring. We are familiar enough with the grooming of running backs and power forwards but how does one bring along a trumpeter, or a percussionist? It all begins at the 4th of July parade and carries on through the football season. You can usually spot the new freshmen faces right away, their cheeks puffed out, their steps hesitant. By the winter concert they've gained some confidence (not to mention, ability) and by June they're making enough of a contribution that the outgoing seniors can finally sit with the rest of us and enjoy the music, which is what the band is all about in the first place.

SPARTAN SPECTATOR

The 1994 editions of the Spartan Spectator marked the twenty-fifth year that Mr. Kerson has presided over our school's paper as advisor. Editors-in-chief Shawn Lavelle and Mike McKenna directed a talented staff of writers and reporters and contributed regular Op - Ed pieces as well. Published opinions ranged from the conservative ("Is the Media the Root of Hysteria?") to liberal ("Can Your Beer Do This?"), and beyond ("Editors' Box! Keep Out"). The real news of the school, the who's, the what's, the where's, and the why's were related with the clarity and style that has long been the paper's trademark under Mr. Kerson. Congratulations on a fantastic twenty-five years!

COPE.

The Council of Peer Educators continued to fight the good fight in 1994, waging an informational war against the evils of drugs, alcohol, and tobacco. Members volunteered their time to visit local elementary schools where they passed out instructional literature and spread the word about the serious consequences of substance abuse. COPE did not confine their efforts to the pre-teen set. The group also conducted an alarming compliance check that discovered that 35% of local businesses sold tobacco products to minors. And, in keeping with tradition, in March the Council hosted one of the biggest and best COPE Classic volleyball tournaments to date.

OFFICE AIDES

The office aides are a dedicated lot whose vital work is often unseen and underappreciated. Yes, they pass out our morning tardy slips, and, yes, they make sure our 7:40's are delivered too, but beyond those mundane duties the aides provide a variety of services and support to our school's front office. They sort and deliver mail. They carry messages throughout the building. They gather the morning attendance and distribute the results in the afternoon. They create a friendly first impression when visitors come to our school. We may not always know what they're up to, but our routine would surely grind to a halt without them.

AEGIS

A good meal lasts an hour or so, then, little by little, its taste is forgotten as the next meal is anticipated. A good movie lasts an hour or two, but its images begin to fade from the mind's eye even as the screen grows dark. A good book, though, lasts forever. Aegis '94 is the much anticipated yearbook whose words and images have been unavailable to us for too long, yet in the end, whose captured memories will last a lifetime. Here are just a few of the good people who helped put it all together.

STUDENT LIFE

Years from now, as we try in vain to remind our children (or grandchildren!) that school should be a vitally important part of their lives, chances are we'll reflect on our own experiences and draw a blank. Zip. Nada. Bubkus. Zero, The empty set.

What will have happened to our mastery of geometry, of the Periodic Table of the Elements, of Hamlet? Where will all those Spanish vocabulary words have disappeared to, so soon, seemingly, after we got our tongues accustomed to producing them?

And then it will begin to dawn on us, after all those years, that our real education happened when we weren't looking. Outside the classroom walls, beyond the range of the passing bells, somewhere in the margins, perhaps, of the program of studies, we learned what we needed, after all.

POWER PUFF FOOTBALL

On a chilly fall afternoon when a few misguided souls stayed home to watch Florida St. push and shove with Norte Dame, REAL fans of controlled student violence turned out to witness ELHS's semi-annual Key Club Powder Puff football games. This year an upstart freshman squad advanced to the finals by winning a hard fought victory over the sophomores. The seniors moved on with an easy romp through an out-muscled, but determined, junior eleven. In the championship game the Class of '94 scored first, then held on for dear life as time expired with the frosh driving. The true winners on the day were the members of the Key Club, who raised $1000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Hand-to-gland combat. Lindsay leads the stingy frosh defense.

"Score girls, score!" How many blondes does it take to spell TD?

"Oh Mandy, when you cut and you ran without faking . . . "

nee Rugani directs the sophomore attack.

Cinch it! Darlene gets a free fashion tip.

Sacks and violence? Brienne applies the "breaks".

There she goes again. Becky hauls in another touchdown pass.

Back in black - Laura Znoj looks to the sidelines for help.

Don't try this at home! Activities like this could give the Y chromosome a bad name.

Thanks again, Key Clubbers!

TWINS

We don't know for sure whether the mysterious origin of twins is due to the increasing popularity of loose-fitting genes, or whether some wild wag of an obstetrician has been urging his patients to cut back on eggs. We only know that, despite the occasional confusion, they're twice as nice to be around.

SEMI-FORMAL

Are these the same people who just a few weeks ago sat shivering in their cars at "Public", wondering if there would ever be anything to do? It can't be. Just look at them, so well-dressed, so confident, so cool . . .

Ed arrives in style.

Women have no idea how hard it is to tie a tie.

"Hey mom, can I keep him?"

Deb knows no woman can resist . . .

"Garlic bread. Why do you ask?"

One benefit of global warming - in 3 years Steve's hair may be dry.

y on, Will!!!

It may be the shoes, but then again ...

Sugar-free maybe, but undeniably sweet!

... a well-heeled suitor.

Saturday Night Fever? Ed and John succumb to the music - Yo, is there a doctor in the house?

The emperor's new shoes? They're YOU!

"and listen, if he mentions 'submarine races' just say NO!"

SNOW DAYS

One winter has been so much like another while we've been growing up that years from now we may have trouble remembering whether it snowed for five days and five nights when we were fifteen, or whether it snowed for fifteen days and fifteen nights when we were five.

Remember the Winter of '94; before we graduated and went our separate ways, when we whispered our urgent prayers to the T.V. weathermen each evening and rose with the dawn to hear if school would, indeed, be called off, when overnight the iron growl of the rumbling plows gave way to the scrape and hiss of the morning shovel, when the roads resembled tundra and the mercury dropped out of sight, before exams, before the prom, before the caps and before the gowns, it snowed and it snowed.

ZITI DINNER

Our favorite recipe:
40 lbs. fresh ziti
600 meatballs
10 gallons tomato sauce
147 seniors, eager to raise money
200 hungry friends and family
Cooking suggestions:
Combine ingredients in an atmosphere of fun and mix thoroughly.
Serves: a good cause.

(warning: may induce premature senioritis among some diners)

"I didn't tell you this before but croutons scare me."

First, 'Olympic fever', now we've got ZITI FEVER!!

It's clean-up time as Marisol applies the 'sleeper' hold. OUCH!

Sue and Deb recall their 'salad days'

Everybody say 'grated cheese' please!

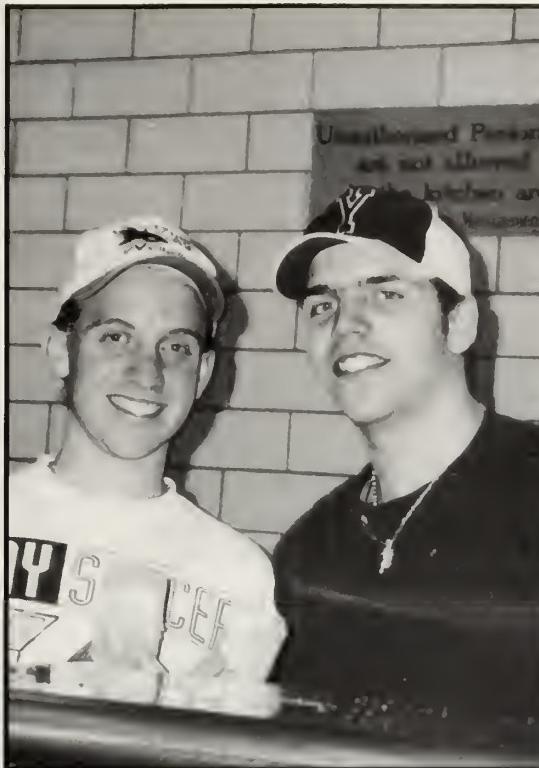

Don't spare the sauce, Big Man.

waits for his second wind.

pardon them for not dressing.

Roll with it baby.

More ziti-fueled madness.

"Rule #1: No tipping. Unofficial Rule #2. Encourage diners to violate Rule #1."

Your table will be ready in just a moment . . .

The 1st time that 'too many cooks' made the whole thing better.

FASHION

Strike a pose ...

Look out, they're multiplying!

The latest from "B-B Fashions".

"Form meets function" or "How I got 'Kareemed' in the lab"

Tres chic! Le haute couture! Hautboy - oh - boy!

Some days you just can't tell the students without a scorecard.

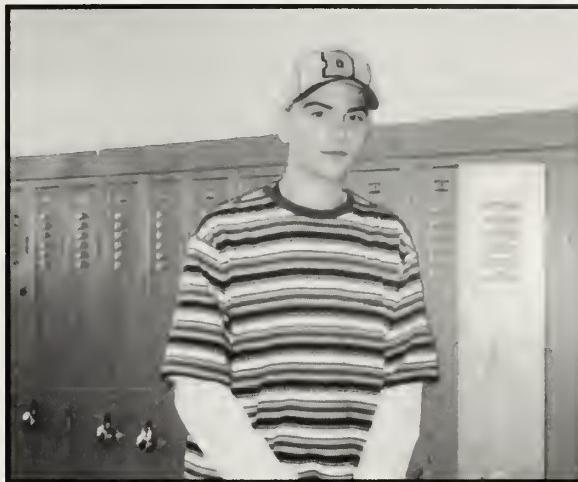

The "House of Style" that Ruth built?

TRENDS '94

etrotomania clogs the fashion pipeline.

A very 90's fashion statement: "Why me?"

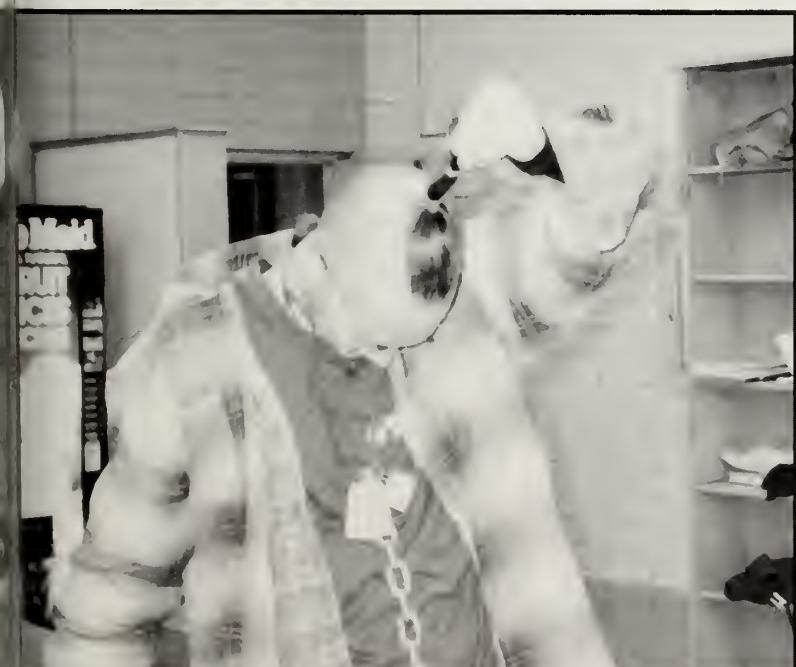

Minnie steps out in mribbit-to-wear.

anchors aweigh in this classic blue blazer.

TOGA! TOGA! TOGA!

E-S-P-E-C-T, A tip of Chris's 'do to me!"

CONGRESS. BECAUSE

THERE'S NO INTEREST MORE SPECIAL THAN YOURS

HILLARY'S HOUSE

I have a long memory. Etched in it are my dreamer, my designer, my sleeper, my singer, my wanderer, my noisemaker, my wit master, my giggler, my slacker, my rocker, MY CRUE. See you at who's wedding? Love always and forever, your frog-drawer,
Jennifer

To all my friends,

You've carried me through all my rough times and the good times, too. Throughout my life, there's always been someone to guide me. I'd do just about anything for you. Anytime you need a friend, I'll be there for you.

- Brian Vickery

To Cathy -

It's been the best 12 years of my life. What can't I say? Remember Ferris and all the sleepovers. Driving instruction anyone? FREE FOOD! Shoot for the stars and all your dreams will come true.

Love ya' - Jessica

p.s. (We'll have to visit Steve sometime in booneytown. Call him DADDY for me.)

To the kids (Chicken Legs, Janelly Bean, and Ceejay) -

What am I going to do without you next year? It just won't be the same. No more bagels, flipping juice tabs, swimming buddies, and no more listening to me talk about you-know-who. Good luck in everything, and always remember: my baloney has a first name ... but I don't eat meat 'cause I'm a veterinarian. Love, peace, pizza-pizza,

Your little green friend - Lil' Red

Kelly,

Our friendship has withstood the test of time. We've been through a lot, but it was worth it. It's been a rough year for both of us, but we managed through it and everything has turned out fine. Although I'm graduating I promise things won't change.

Love ya' always - Crash

Our friendship's a bond so true,
There are many memories of times we've been through.
Walking for miles and pranking 'til dawn,
Camping trips, New Hampshire, jamming all night long.
I'll remember us always as I sing this song,
"We are the Crue, the mighty, mighty Crue!"
B.F.F. - G.I.J.

To Doug Knowe,

I'm glad I met you at Friendly's. Don't forget me when you go away to college. Good luck in the future. I'll miss you.

Love - Sarah

Amy I.-

Stay away from Chad, and remember the Snowbank and N.K.O.T.B.

Beth -

You'll find a man and you'll get that car if it kills you.

Carrie -

Never sit for hours without talking and I'll see you at Friendly's.

Love always - Sherry

Doug -

Thanks for being my big brother the past three years. Have a great summer playing ball!

- Little Bro'

If things go right, I'll see all of you in five or ten years. On the odd chance that I don't, may we cross paths in a later life. To anyone who got the wrong impression of me, I hope this last year (marking the end of our twelve year depression) changed your mind. Goodbye to my closest "TOASTY" friends - Erin, Cathy, Big A, Jeff, and Chris. Long live the pit, band sucks, "TOMMM ..."

- Sean

To Fois, Fuco, Nate, Kev, and Dick -

I'll have the grill ready at Uncle Tom's Cabin. Watch out for the slow deer and the slower children. Stay off Diesel Island; you might lose your axle. Don't let them see the closet. The dishes are done, the jacket is warming the house and don't forget to bring the ice!

- Duker

To all my friends -

What do you do when an unknown feeling comes over you?

You follow your heart and hope all your dreams come true.

If your heart says yes, you hope your mouth does, too.

These past four years I've had that feeling.

I followed my heart and look where it landed me,
Right in your mind and heart. I hope that's where I stay,
As long as that unknown feeling is in my heart.

That unknown feeling has turned into a known feeling,
Of love and caring, comfort and understanding.

I've forgotten all my fears, problems, worries - my past.
That feeling made me think of the future,
A future with just you and me.

Love - Jenna

To my friends,

Girls, I love you all and my high school years have been the best thanks to you. We'll never forget our babies, sausagefest, Kharma Chameleon, Fes, S.C., FONS, Daisy Dukes, and Rooster's famous B-Day. We'll always hold those memories close to our hearts and never forget,

"Everywhere we go, people want to know who we are, so we tell them ..."

Love - Allyson

Hey Sis!

We made it without killing each other, STARBURST! I'll miss watching Tom with you. Don't worry, we'll find Ginny. Keep your jacket and suitcase clean! You'd better keep in touch, meathead. I know we'll always be BB. Stay off the tangerines.

- Amy

To Vanessa, Brienne, Matt, and Noah,

We want to wish you luck with the rest of your high school years, only three more to go. We had a lot of fun this year. We'll miss you guys.

Love - Heather, Kelly, and Adam

p.s. (Rat Shot)

To Jessica and Sheri,

We've had so many great times together along with the falling apart, blue "S Machine". You two are the most wonderful friends anyone could ask for. It's too bad that things will never be the same after this summer. Just remember to stay cool like Atræu and Sébastien in THIS "neverending story".

Love - Christine

To my friends,

You know who you are, you crazies. There are just a few things I have to say ... "It's been real", "Like Butta", "Nifty", "Jalapeno", "Cheesy", and last, but not least, "The smurfs will make a comeback!" You guys are the best. I love you all and I wish you the best of luck in the future.

Love - Tam

p.s. (I am not a blonde, I'm just a wannabe!)

To the Boo-ya Boys,

Well guys, I guess the Boo-ya didn't live forever, but the memories will. Even though we all went our separate ways this year, I just wanted to say thanks for helping me out with "Ah, I forgot her name!" Brandon, you are awesome. Good luck and Boo-ya!

- Doug

To MDP,

All good things come to an end, and this was the greatest! It's too bad it's over because hanging out at Dan's, Tony's, and Craig's and winning all your money is just something I'll always remember. I hope this doesn't ruin the night!

- Doug

Renee,

I have a lot of memories from the years past, good ones like falling in plants and embarrassing things happening in Friendly's. I have one word for you - forever.

Sherry,

We're finally through. I promise not to go into anymore snowbanks. No more sharing CT & MF. The beach is calling our names.

- Amy

Waldo,

Through the years we've gotten closer, through break-ups and crack-ups. Remember Riverside and "That was awesome." I love ya' always though we're nowhere near the end. Good luck.

Love - Sherry

To the Class of '94.

I wish you all the luck and happiness in the world. Have a wonderful future.

Amy I.

To Chicken Legs, Janelly Bean, Tamster and Hard Head,

You might be heading off into a whole new world but you'll never have another friend like me. Never forget that driving is easy once you learn to avoid the plows. Gambling at midnight while eating Better Cheddars can be an adventure, but grapes and cocoa go great on an empty stomach. The cheerleader with the red wig and balloons is the best but blondes do it better. My name isn't Sara but I must ask "What's wrong?" From pumpkin carving to lunch block studies we've been through a lot. Thanks for all the memories.

Love - Ceejay

Ellie,

Only time will tell where we'll be tomorrow, but if dreams do come true we will be together. No matter what happens our love will always be strong and nothing can change that. I'll always be there for you to hold, to cry with, to love. Hey "doorbell", you're the greatest.

Love always and forever - Snoopy

Jewels,

What will I do without you next year? I just wanted to say thanks for all the clothes I've borrowed, all the times you've made me breakfast, started my car, and for being my sis. Smiley, you're the best almost-sister a girl could have.

I love you - Rah-rah

Hey Christine!

You're the greatest I've ever seen
Thank you so much for being a friend
All the way to the bitter end
Good luck with any career you choose
You're bound to win, never to lose
You'd make a great writer
Or a super biker
Good luck, graduate!
Love - Mindy

To the Class of '94,

Here's to our last goodbye. No more "have a great summer. See ya' next year!" We've done it; we've actually made it, together. The best of luck to you in your future. Don't let anything get in the way of your dreams.

- Sherry

To Babber, Quinn, Dubie, and Maccer,

We've had many good times this year and we hope there are more to come. Connecticut and Hampden trips were always the best. We'll never forget you because you made our high school years memorable. Good luck in the future.

Love - Ginger and Melanoma

To Sarah,

What can I say? We've been through a lot together, from Meadowbrook to the end of ELHS, the three amigos' flying golf balls to the stomach, laughter and tears, and parties too.

To Carrie,

Through the last four years we have changed a lot: our memories about RW, and sharing the same boyfriend, ha-ha. I am looking forward to us going to college together. - Amy

Heather,

I don't think I have ever laughed as much as I have this year.
BEEF STOCK!

Isn't it weird how some people's personalities just click? Never lose touch. Let me get that for you ...

Love - Sarah

Brian,

I'm amazed that we're still alive. You have been my best friend for far too long. You always made me laugh until I cried. Thanks for going out of your way to be my best buddy, even if your hair's too short.

Love - Syngh

To Mindy,

It will be so bizarre here without my best friend to talk to when I am down, or up. For ten years we've been there for each other so it's safe to say I'll miss you next year. Lots of luck and may all your dreams come true.

- Christine

p.s. ("I love the fog.")

To Mr. Mazz.,

I never could stay in class and I never really liked points. Suspension was OK, almost like a three day vacation. I couldn't have made it through here without your guidance. Thanks for pushing me to become the person I am today.

- Sherry

Dear Tigger and Sunshine,

What a strange year! I wish it hadn't taken so long for us to become friends. Thanks for being there.

Love-Trigger

To the Class of '94

Every senior class wants to make a lasting impression on the school they've left behind. Thank you for all your enthusiastic support throughout the '93 football season; we couldn't have done it without you. We brought life back to ole EL. Now we must follow our own paths, alone. Farewell and good luck to the Class of '94.

- Marc Maccarini

To Janelly Bean, Tamster, Ceejay, Riverbank Wank, and Handsome,

Never be afraid to drop by unannounced; don't forget "it's" free territory after school. Always carry two dimes and a quarter, just in case. Bring Smurfette bowling at least twice a year, eat tacos with carrots, and learn to drive. It could be fun, if you avoid the plows. A long walk with the Mountain Man proved to be a toasty experience. The rags are everywhere, you just have to look for them. I can still eat more than you, Mark, and my baloney has a first name ...

- Chicken Legs

Hey Lollipop,

We've been through so much together and I know I'm never annoying. Take care of yourself in college. Keep away from those snack cakes. It's Burke's Law. Remember we'll always have "Walkin' on Sunshine", Laura's crunch, jet skiing, and your mustache shadow.

I'm bad - Smiley

p.s. (I saw it first)

Trigger and Sunshine,

You're awesome! We've gotten to be great friends. Someday we'll get in the photo booth and we'll get frogs. Don't forget to take circuitous routes. How could we forget the semi? Now we have the "morp" and N.C. I'm just "going to town".

Love - Tigger

To Ryan and Chris,

Wow, it's been a blast! Problems, we've had our share. I love you both - don't take that the wrong way. Keep in touch. Don't ever change.

CD - A&C has been fun, come join us again, please. I need you to flirt with Matt for me.

RS - Friendly's was the best!

Love you both - Jessica

You People,

Ryan, Mike, someday they'll see. Jeff, "Primus sucks". Joe, you can't draw. Gil, get the food. Jess, punch him. Beth, Mickey's a loser. Dan, Extreme and Queen. Marc, what a friend! Vick, stop cutting your hair. Clank, Irwin is huge. Little girl, you're mine.

C - Ya, Chris

To Jeremy

Well little bro, I guess you'll have the house to yourself next year! Keep an eye on both of our parents because I won't be around. Shelly will miss me (yeah, right!) the last few years have been the best and I'll always remember them.

Your big bro - Doug

To my friends,

Thank you for the unforgettable memories and the great times. You have made high school an experience that I will always remember. Friends like you don't come around very often and I will truly miss each of you next year.

- Krista

To Tigger and Trigger,

I really wish it hadn't taken seventeen years for us to become as close as we are. I'll always be there for you if you need me, now, and in the future. Good luck in everything you do.

- Sunshine

To Vick,

What can I say except June 4, 1993? Remember Hampton Beach? Swimming in the toilet. Wish we all could do it again. I'll never forget how much you mean to me so keep in touch.

Love - Sherry

To Chicken Legs & Company,

Where to begin? From taco wars to pumpkin carving, and of course, our infamous midterm bowling rages, we all made it through ELHS with some special memories. Husky Hedgehog - you'll forever be in a Monty Python fix or "experiencing" silly putty (mac-n-cheese), and guaranteed I'll be singing Wip Out while the band plays Pomp and Circumstance, (Sean!) Oh, I wish I were a fishy in a bowl ... "Eddie Vedder-isms", kazoos, tattoos, and (sigh!) the letter 'D'. Lots of luck and love always guys - I couldn't possibly forget you, though I still can't find my nerf football!!!

Love - Janel (Gurn-Gurn)

Also to Mr. Turner, Miss Sessler, Mr. Dutille, Mr. Marden, Marty, and Miss Fay,

Some teachers put their time in and ship us out without ever learning our full names. However, I feel compelled to applaud the six of you for a job well done. You knew me as a person, not just an object to be lectured to. I will forever take to heart your patience, support, and advice. Thank you! It's been a wonderful experience I'll not soon forget. Valete - Janel

To Beth,

Well, what can I say? We've overcome a lot with R.S. and the eggs, our promises and toasts. I'm sure we'll keep on getting in trouble together.

- Amy

To the Class of '94,

Thanks guys, for all the memories. It never mattered if we were playing a sport, cheering a team, or studying, we were always together as a class. That's what made it great!

"These were the times to remember, they will not last forever."

- Doug

CONGRATULATIONS GRADS

Michael,

Thank you for being all that you are. We look back with pride for your accomplishments, ahead with happiness for your future, at you with love for the wonderful son, brother, and person that you are. You couldn't have done it better!

Love, happiness, and success always - Mom, Dad, Chrissy

Erin,

Your dad and I will never forget your first screaming day of kindergarten. We thought it would be a long 13 years but now we can't believe it's over. We're very proud of you and all that you've become. Be bold and courageous. When you look back on your life you'll regret the things you didn't do more than those you did.

Love - Mom, Dad, Nyssa, and Bryce

Christopher,

Your years at ELHS have been very exciting; between soccer and Spartanum and everything in between. We are very proud of your accomplishments. The future holds many choices for you. Remember we will always love you and support whatever decisions you make.

Good luck - Mom, Mike, and Lisa

Jennifer,

You've had four wonderful years in high school. We are all very proud of the things that you have done. We know you'll excel in college because you've always achieved just what you set out to do. You have a wonderful future ahead of you and we love you very much.

Love - Mom, Dad, Carrie, Andrea, and Tiffany

T.J.

Congratulations! Best wishes for the future. We hope you get that 50-foot Sea Ray! We're all proud of you.

Love - Mom, Dad, Lisa, and Shannen

Dawn,

Congratulations to a very special daughter who has always made me proud. You're such an important part of my life ... and you always will be. I love you - Mom

Jason,

We are very proud of you and all you've accomplished. Congratulations!

Love - Mom, Dad, and Jessa

Becky,

It's with great pride that we have seen you grow and become the wonderful young lady you are today. We congratulate you for being a winner and a '94 graduate.

- Your Mother and Father

The future is yours "Deb Steere". We are confident you'll be the best in whatever you choose and in whatever life brings. Aim for the sky!

With all our love - Mom, Dad, Susan, Rich, and Cyndy

Amy and Kate,

What happy memories we have - tubing the Westfield, DEW at History Day, the hurricane at the Cape, nightcrawler picking, and the ramp at Revere Beach. Good luck in the future. Love - Mum and Dad

P.S. (Dad says "Don't forget the bass boat!")

Carey,

Congratulations on all your achievements. We wish you success and happiness in your future years. We are very proud to have you as our daughter and sister. Good luck next year, and always.

Love - Mom, Dad, Kristen, and Katelyn

Nicole,

It seems like yesterday we were putting you on the bus for kindergarten. Although we feel sad that we're losing our little girl, we are so proud of the woman you've become. May all your dreams come true.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Jeremy

Jessica,

August 4th, summer day, curls, smiles, happy play
Garden street, park and sand, dark brown eyes
Close at hand
Idlewild and Tybee too, all friends called, "The Crue".
Friends, neighbors, secrets told
Jets, Spartans, memories old.
Boys, school, college soon
Stars beckon; jump the moon.

Love - Mom and Dad

Mike,

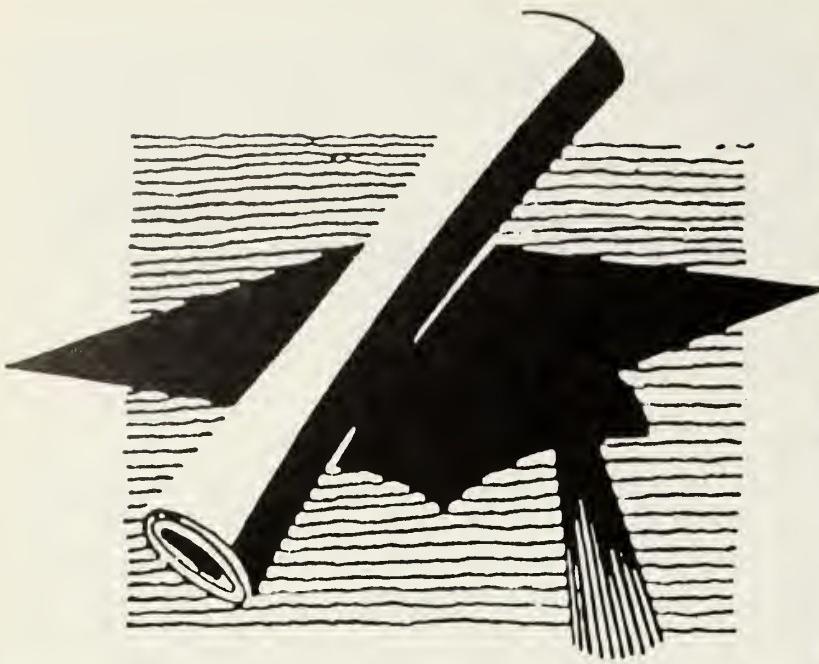

Your old gin rummy partner would be very proud of you. We are too!

Love - Mom, Dad, Carrie, and Jeff

Kyle,

We wish you the best of health, wisdom, and continued success in life. Remember Cape Cod summers and Vermont winters - we sure do! Congratulations. Have a great college experience and may God bless you! You are a great son and brother.

Love - Mom, Dad, Ryan, and Lee

Keller,

These past four years have been exciting, fun, rewarding, turbulent, but never dull; miraculously, everyone involved has retained their sanity. We have watched you become a mature, sensitive, loving young man. We are proud of your strengths, leadership, and many accomplishments. Continued success and happiness are surely yours.

With great love and pride - Mom and Dad

Sarah,

From the days when you were a little girl, laughing and playing to the final days of high school, as you prepare to pursue your dreams and meet the challenges of tomorrow - always remember that we love you and are very proud.

Love - Mom, Dad, Julie, Abby, and Gram

Ryan,

Congratulations! We want you to know that we are very proud of all you have accomplished over the years. We wish you good luck in all that you may do in the future.

Love always - Mom and Dad

Nathan,

We looked up "H" in the dictionary to find "humor" as you always told us to! Alongside of it, we found "honest", "humble", and "heroic" which are the qualities that best describe you.

Love - Mom, Dad, Kimberly, Adam, and Natalie

James,

We are so lucky to have a kid as great as you in our lives. Thanks for being you. Always listen to your heart and follow your dreams.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Jessica

Richard,

It is hard to express how proud we are to have a son like you; you are a wonderful son and brother. We know whatever choices you make, you will do your very best. We wish you success, love, and most of all, happiness in your future.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Sarah

Jaimie,

It has been a joy watching you grow, especially these past four years. You have made us all very proud! Remember, always keep that great sense of humor and that wonderful smile and life will continue to be a sure success for you.

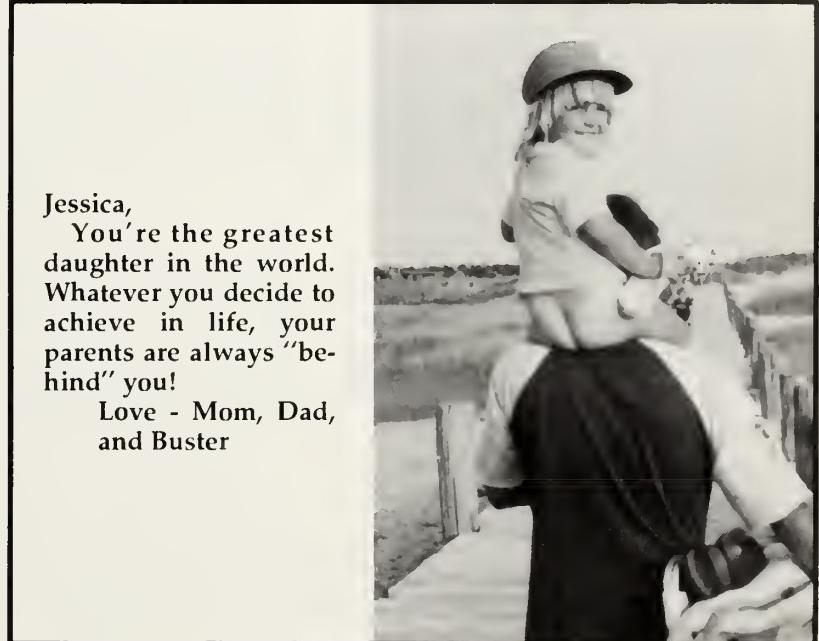

We love you - Your Family

Peter,

We love you! Good luck in college.

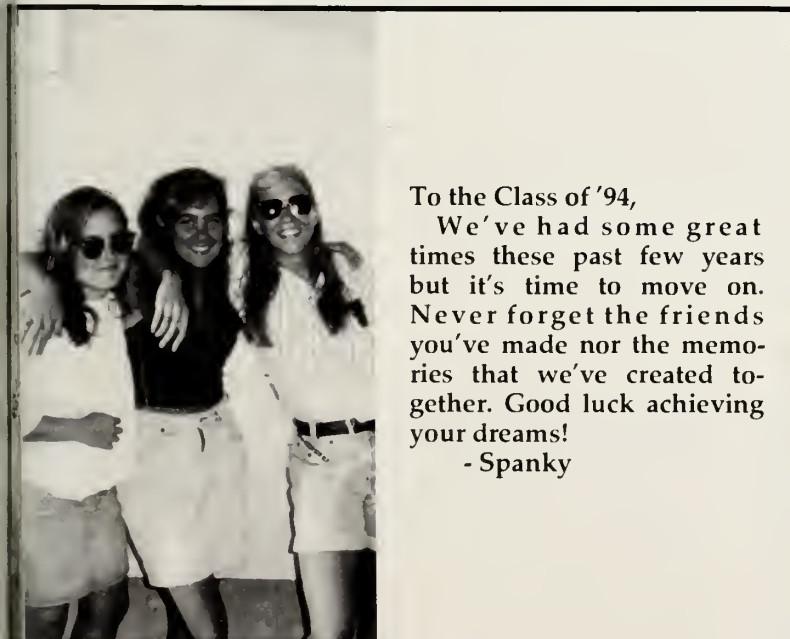

- Mom, Dad, Todd, and Liddy

Jessica,

You're the greatest daughter in the world. Whatever you decide to achieve in life, your parents are always "behind" you!

Love - Mom, Dad, and Buster

To the Class of '94,

We've had some great times these past few years but it's time to move on. Never forget the friends you've made nor the memories that we've created together. Good luck achieving your dreams!

- Spanky

Kurt,

Our time with you - fleeting
Our love for you - immense
Our wishes for you - innumerable
The future for you - superlative!
GO FOR IT!

All our love - Mom, Dad, and Krista

Susan,

Congratulations!!!

A dance, a teacher, a friendly waitress ... You danced into our lives with bright-eyed wonder. You taught us a kind of love only a daughter could give. You wait on anyone in need, and never without a smile.

Susan we are proud of you!!!

Love - Mom, Dad, and Tom

Mike,

Congratulations! We are so proud of you and all your accomplishments. We're especially proud of the person you are. Always keep that smile and enjoy life.

Love - Mom, Vic, Brian, and Erik

Krista,

Congratulations on a job well done. We are all proud of you and wish you the best.

Love - Dad, Mom, Jim, April, and Erinne

Fancy Face,

Congratulations! You are a very special person. To all the great times: riding the big waves, paddle boat rides, teaching you to drive, and even having a snowball fight in the truck!

Life is too short. Use your smarts with your good looks and live life to the fullest!

Love, You-Know-Who

Stephen,

Good luck in college. We'll miss you!

Love - Dad, Mom, and Kristin

Melanie,

You are very special to us. We love you and are proud of you. May God bless you with a fulfilling life.

Love always - Dad, Mom, Heather, Keith, and Paul

Allyson,

Job well done!!! Congratulations and good luck!

Love - Dad and Mom

p.s. (We're sure going to miss those soccer games.)

Steve,

You're a great son and brother. Your thoughtfulness, outgoing personality and competitiveness will ensure your success at whatever you choose for the future. Thanks for the good times and the great memories. We're really proud of you. Good luck in college.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Mike

Christine,

Thank you for bringing so much happiness into our lives. You are a very special daughter who has always made us proud. Congratulations! We wish you much success and may all your dreams come true.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Eric

Stephanie,

Congratulations! The high school years are over and a bright future awaits. We will always be proud of you and your achievements. Keep your goals in sight. Don't settle for less. You will succeed.

Love - Mom, Tom, Steve, Kim, Meesh and Buster

Doug,

If a few simple words could express our feelings at this time in your life they would be CONGRATULATIONS and GOOD LUCK!

Love - Mom, Dad, and Kelly

Albert,

Congratulations! We wish you the best of luck in the future, hope life is good to you, and that all your dreams come true.

Love - Mom, Dad, Teresa, Grandma, and Bugs

Congratulations John A. Readout! We are very proud of you. God bless all of your future endeavors! You are a fine son and brother.

Love - Mom, Dad, Lisa, and Steve

Adams,

We're proud of you and love you very much. Wishing you much luck and happiness.

- Mom, Dad, and Austin

Chris,

Congratulations. We are very proud of you and all your accomplishments. Your future is bright and exciting because of all your hard work. No matter where you go, we are always here for you.

Love - Mom, Dad, and Lisa

FIELD DAY

Juniors Take Overall Crown

Damien takes an early lead in the unofficial "ray-gathering" event.

"Like kissing your sister" - The juniors and seniors battled to a 6 - 6 tie.

Rumblin', stumblin', FUMBLE!!!

I got it! . . . I got it! . . . I don't got it

Panting on a hot day? Kyle Berard and Dan Desilets get a leg up on the competition.

BASEBALL

Look out! Mike's .377 avg. made this brush back pitch inevitable.

A farewell to arms - Doug was a versatile four year starter for the Spartans.

John Trovato scores the game-winning run in our victory over the hated Lancers.

H-e-e-e-r-e's the pitch. All League Jeremy Giard tees off en route to a .281 BA.

Nosedive! Mark and Keith combine on a pick-off.

All WMass Mark Maia held the Lancers to 5 measly hits over 6 2/3 innings.

"Knowing we were just as good as other teams gave us confidence and brought us together." - Mike St. Clair

The agony of defeat - Steve Fazio feels the playoffs slipping away.

"Hey batterbatterbatterbatter . . ." Chris Chaisson was a crouching standout.

In March the Varsity Baseball team wanted only to win one more game than they did last year. By June they found themselves contending for the playoffs. How were they able to finish at 11-9, just one win short of the tournament? The team was a combination of timely hitting, capable defense, and a never-say-die attitude. Seniors Mark Maia (All WMass pitcher), Mike St. Clair (All WMass 2nd baseman) and Doug Knowe (All League shortstop), were key performers whose leadership proved to be contagious. Brian Karavish became a powerful hitter whose .421 avg. and four triples led the team while Chris Chaisson was a solid backstop all year. Underclassmen Jeremy Giard (All League OF), John Trovato (OF), Matt Lyons (3B) and Ray Stevens (OF) were also vital to the team's success and will return to form the nucleus of next year's squad.

SOFTBALL

Safe! Tiffany beats the throw and does a little umpiring at the same time.

The eyes have it - Darlene is a study in concentration.

Errin puts on her meanest game face.

She's going! All WMass (Honorable Mention) Meg Kubera was a freshman sensation.

Slip 'n' Slide! Even on a rainy day diamonds can be a girl's best friend.

Going ... Going ... Gone - YEAH!

Despite the differences in our ages we really came together as a team. When anyone got down there was always someone to help them up - that's what a team is all about.- Jen Cunningham, Erin Bentley

"Oooh - Brownlee we love your way!"

If at first you succeed - Abbie awaits a throw from short.

Although they returned only 4 players from last year's squad and included 3 freshman among the starters, the '94 Varsity Softball team posted a fine 9-10 record - only one win short of the playoffs. Senior co-captains Erin Bentley (All League) and Jen Cunningham were enthusiastic leaders who helped mold the group into a hardworking team. Along the way the Spartans received stellar play from All W.Mass shortstop Lindsay Sawyer, centerfielder Meg Kubera, All League 3rd baseman Julie Gentile, and 1st baseman Abbie Ohlin. The team will certainly miss Erin, Jen, and Darlene, but their outlook is great for next year. YEAH!

BOYS' TENNIS

Freshman Bill Yorns swings into action.

Can you say "Shwing!" ?

Kurt Melien blasts away from beyond the baseline.

Todd "raps" a forehand winner.

"Rapper" leans into one.

Dimitri stares down his opponent.

"It was a tough season due to our lack of experience, but the younger players definitely have a bright future in front of them." - Kurt Melien

Bill gets some pre-game advice.

Topspin doctor - Bill's patience paid off on this backhand.

back row (l-r) Coach Pearson, Dimitri Gartsbeyn, Noah Berger, Bill Yorns, Dave Gowdy, Zach Rohlfs, front (l-r) Kurt Melien, Todd Rapisarda, Neal Young, Randall Benoit

Although they endured a winless season the boys' tennis team did play some very close matches. The two seniors, Kurt Melien and Todd Rapisarda performed very well as doubles partners. Charles Gray's impressive season spurred sophomore Dimitri Gartsbeyn and freshmen Bill Yorns and Noah Berger to play like upper-classmen. The team hopes that with a bit more experience, they will have several successful seasons in the near future.

GIRLS' TRACK

Becky sets a blistering pace in the 4x100 Relay.

Mindy Robison's performances in the discus helped earn her team MVP honors.

"Most Dedicated Athlete" Jennie Hill set a personal best of 30'10" in the triple jump.

Catch!!! Martha Baker throws herself into the action after a long bout with mono.

"She's Like the Wind" - Jessica sprints to 1st place in the 100.

It was a grudge match right to the finish, but Christina came out on top in 15.3 seconds.

"This team was really competitive and has a great future, especially the freshmen. Track is the BEST!"
- Mindy Robison

Cori tries out for a role in Gettysburg II "Hand to Hand."

Johari and Jessica stretch for the tape in the 100 meter dash.

Top (L-R): Zakiyyah Amiss, Stephanie Kimble, Emily Bareiss, Jessica Metoxen, Brie Ryan, Nicole Verteramo, Lauren Scagni, Nora Dillon, Kiesha Foggs, Megan Bianco, Cori Cassidy, Jennie Hill, Johari Curtis. Middle: Julianne Gelinas, Amber Arnold, Christina Urbini, Renee Blanchard, Lynne Hassin, Jessica Bianco, Martha Baker. Front: Erin Schloyer, Lee Jangrow, Melinda Robison, Becky Douville.

The 1994 Girls Track Team crossed the finish line with an overall record of 3-5 (3-4, league). Captains Becky Douville, Lee Jangrow and Mindy Robison led a promising team of 24, including Erin Schloyer (800), Julie Gelinas (330 hurdles), Christina Urbini (W.Mass discus), Joanne Evans (W.Mass shotput), and Johari Curtis (100, long and triple jump). Despite their losses the team has many dedicated and promising athletes coming up. Freshmen include Megan Bianco (mile), Cori Cassidy (2 mile, 880), Jennie Hill (220, long and triple jump), and Jessica Metoxen (100, long jump). The enthusiasm of these younger runners could be enough to put this team over the top next spring.

GIRLS' TENNIS

... and BEND! and STRETCH! ... Kris McMillan gets down.

A star on the rise - Lynn Borowiec stays focused.

A backhanded compliment? Nicole gives as well as she receives.

It's not my fault - Dina moves in on her opponent's second serve.

Grace under fire - Chrissy returns in style.

It's all in the wrists.

"We were a young group this year but with our talent and a little more experience we'll be a good team." - Chrissy Campbell

Sarah shows textbook form in this early season match.

Moonstruck? - Stephanie sends one skyward.

The Varsity Girls' Tennis team struggled through another long, but worthwhile season. It is interesting to note that each of the girls with whom we spoke was upbeat about their results, perhaps realizing that their team is not far away from being in contention. This past year the squad was lead by sophomores Chrissy Campbell, Courtney Fratar, and Dana Turpie. Freshman Lynn Borowiec presented the team with an unexpected bonus as she quickly became their number one singles player. Although their record of 3 - 11 may not have been fantastic, each one of these very young "raqueteers" showed real promise. For a team comprised entirely of underclassmen, these girls played remarkably well. Their upbeat attitude and inevitable improvement has this team destined for success very soon.

BOYS' TRACK

The leader of the pack - Joe Fois topped the scoring list with 108 points.

Ain't no mountain high enough! - Tom Scherpa had few obstacles in the 110 Hurdles.

Take him out to the quarter mile - Mike McKenna gets some advice before the 400.

Look out, he's gonna' hurl!

It takes a leap of faith - Steve Meunier flies 18'3".

Time waits for no man - Jimmy McNeil takes it all in stride.

"Our record this year did not reflect our athletes' true potential." - Mark Stuckenbruck (MVP, Co-Captain)

The original discman - Andy lets go vs. Longmeadow.

Dan Paquette hurls the javelin while Marc Maccarini admires the fancy footwork.

You put your right foot in . . .

Marc dashes to a school record of 11.4 in the 100.

The E.L.H.S. Boys' Track Team finished the '94 Season with a record of 4-5, falling short of the team's expectations. Although the team was loaded with talent, they had trouble putting things together consistently. Among the better performers were Seniors Joe Fois (Mile, 2 Mile), Marc Maccarini (W.Mass Javelin, W.Mass 100), Mike McKenna (400), Jason Metoxen (Triple Jump, 200), Steve Meunier (Long Jump), and Mark Stuckenbruck (Discus). The team also has a promising underclass, particularly Nick Kyte (400), Andy McGrath (W.Mass 800, Discus), Dan Paquette (Shotput), E.J. Villamaino (High Hurdles, Shot), Tom Scherpa (Hurdles, Pole Vault), Alfonso Gioiella (High Jump, Pole Vault), and Matt Gour (Hurdles). Next year's outlook should once again be good, but will they be consistent? We'll see.

GOLF

Keep your head down like Steve ...

... chip up close like Andy ...

... avoid the beach at all costs ...

practice course management like Joe ...

When die-hard golfers get the itch and begin appearing on the snow-covered links, it's a sure sign that spring is just around the corner. This year's Spartan golf team teed off in early April and was rewarded for its diligence, posting a respectable 10-10 record. The team was led by the consistent low scoring of seniors Steve McMillan and Adam Rodrigues as well as by promising underclassmen Steve Mazzariello, Andy Balog and Shaun Erickson. The golf team has always been one of our school's strongest contingents and should remain so next year.

follow through smoothly like Josh ...

read the breaks carefully like Adam ...

and remember it's not the wand, it's the magician.

J.V. SPRING SPORTS

Gettin' his hacks - Mike Ouellette digs in for the Spartans.

Amy bats for the last time in an E.L. uniform. Good luck in Ohio!

Hit the brakes! Alyssa narrowly avoids a crash landing.

BackBackBackBackBack! Rob sends one deep!

Speedy Delivery? Stefanie bowls 'em over.

"They also serve who only stand and wait" - Eric awaits a pickoff attempt.

SPARTANUM

Shut up, Raschilla! I meant how long have we been in the boat.

En Francais, s'il vous plait.

Stick it to him Cathy.

Let's go Big Red, let's go!

SPECTACULUM '94

Acting is OK, but I really want to DIRECT.

Keith takes a ride on the Crazy Train.

At show's end, emcees Doug and Kevin could probably have used a psychiatrist.

Carla delivers the first Rose of spring

THE BANQUET

Rick and Audrey "GQ" for the camera.

Seniors enjoy the feast of Reason and flow of Soul. Hey! Where's Brendan's leash?

Ain't she sweet?

The guys ponder what Jeff meant when he mentioned "just desserts".

"The banquet was definitely a lot more fun than the prom. It really brought the seniors together." - Kelly Gray

That punch is SPIKED I tell ya!

Vive la difference

Save the last dance for me.

THE PROM

"Oooh - I think I sat on my keys"

We've heard that living well is the best revenge but this is ridiculous!

"Closer? If I were any closer I'd be behind you."

Tripping the light fantastic!

"Do you mind if I dance with your date?"

"It was definitely the best way to end the year. It was lots of fun and I think everybody had a great time." - Chris Raschilla

Air Bentley! Erin, Carla and Sib party on.

Please pass the smiles.

Look out Allyson, over your head, IT'S ERIN'S MOUTH!!!

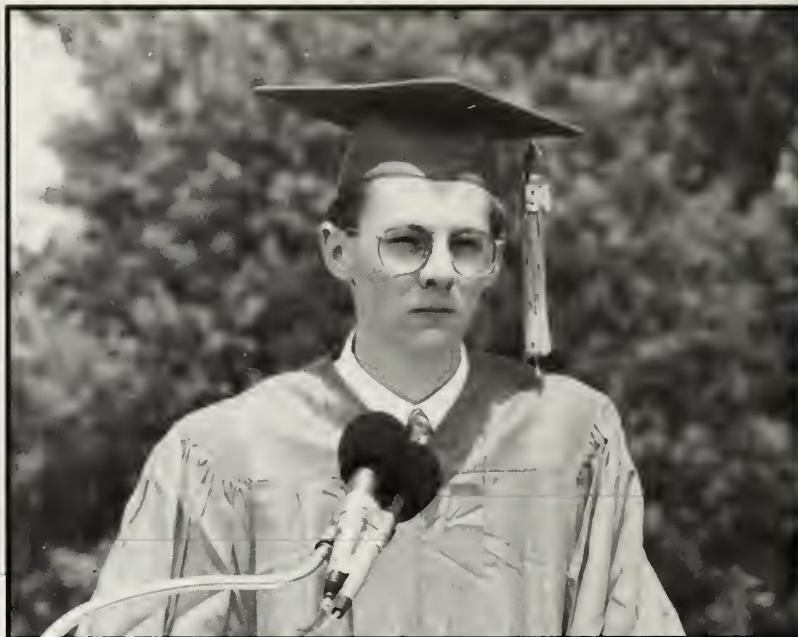

Party regulars! - Adam and Mindy experience deja vu all over again.

GRADUATION

The future's so bright they had to wear shades.

Speech! Speech! President Alcorn leaves office.

Hail! Hail! The gang's all here.

No more pencils, no more books . . .

Tassel Hassle - Pete gets a grip.

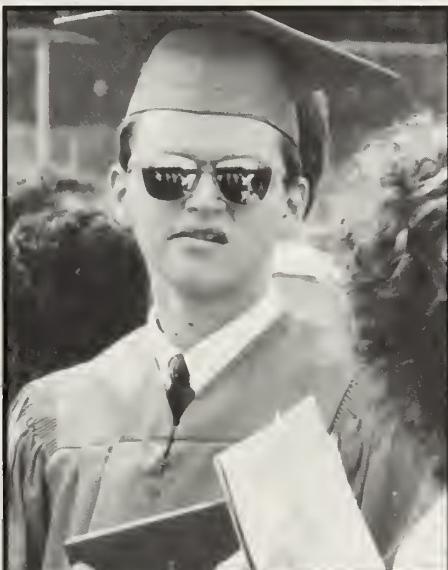

"Walk this way!"

A Good Thing Never Truly Ends.

We can't bear to look - is it over yet?

"I'll be back!"

Practice makes perfect - right, left, right . . .

So long, farewell, auf wiedersehen, good bye!

Off with the caps . . .

EDITORS

When we first met in the spring of '93 to plan this book we had no idea what we were getting into. We each had our own friends, our own schedules, our own conceptions of what our long-awaited senior year should be like. How would there be time for yearbook? How could we bring our staff together and get them to work? And for that matter, how would the four of us get along together when things got tough, we weren't the closest of friends to begin with? What did we really know about putting together a book? The questions mounted. What if we forgot someone? What if we missed a deadline? What if there wasn't enough money to print what we wanted? What if, after all was said and done, people didn't like it? Those were just some of the dilemmas facing us as we sat at Marty's kitchen table that spring evening, eating the first of many pizzas as he assured us that we would do fine. Naturally we fell for it, after all, from a June perspective each of us could afford to be optimistic about the coming year. We finished that first meeting joking, kidding around, trying to get Allyson to laugh as she made an important phone call. We had a good thing going.

The year itself was a blur - so much work to do in so little time. If it weren't for a few individuals on our staff, we never would have made it. Seth Goodchild and Janel Gurney, in particular, deserve a great deal of thanks from anyone who reads this book. They did a fantastic job for us. Sean Dunn, Josh Miner, E.J. Villamaino, Tammy King, Erin Sawyer, Dan Brennan and Christina Urbini were also there when we needed them most and should be thanked also. Not to be overlooked are the contributions that were made by Mr. Agin, Mr. Lendry and the staff at Steinmetz Photography. We certainly couldn't have done this without you.

We have all waited a long time for this yearbook. The usual period of anxiety and anticipation has probably been more difficult to endure this time for some, we know it hasn't been easy for us. But when we were sitting down to prepare this last page we came across something from the poet Ruskin, who claimed that all books could be divided into two groups, the books of the hour, and the books for all time. We tried to achieve the latter. Whether we did or not is the only question that remains. We hope you enjoy AEGIS '94.
